How to make an Ipad Pouch

By Darina

Completed Size 13" wide by 8.5" high

(33cm x 22cm)

Materials:

- Scraps for crazy patch
- Lining – Cut two 14 by 10-inch pieces

To create this I-pad pouch I have used two Kreative Kiwi designs then stitched them on my sewing machine.

If you don't already have these two designs, rather than having you purchase 2 separate designs, we have put a set together for this Blog

Crazy Patch I-Pad Pouch

To begin I made two large A5 (6x10) Crazy Patch Notebook Covers, omitting the end flaps.

- CPNB-6X10-01 (Finish at Color 11)
- CPNB-6X10-02 (skip Color 12 and Color 15 (zig zag stitches)
- CPNB-6X10-A (Finish at Color 14)

I then made one personalised flap (5x7) from the Crazy Patch Clutch Purse.

I have then re-cut the two pieces of lining to match the notebook cover.

Next step is to lay your flap face down on the back panel centred at the top edge. Lay your first lining piece on top face down and stitch across the top, ensuring to stitch far enough down to accommodate the design on the notebook cover.

Open out flat and press.

Repeat for the second piece minus the flap.

Now lay your two pieces with right sides together, matching the seams.

Stitch together leaving an opening on the bottom or side edge of the lining to be able to turn through.

I have curved the bottom corners. Also make sure your seam is deep enough to cater for the design on the notebook edge.

I found I needed to stitch the lining a little bit shorter so there was no excess when all turned through.

Clip all the curves, pull through and just top stitch the opening closed.

I have then chosen to top stitch around the top edge of pouch.

Also along the edge of the flap, changing my threads at each point so they match the fabric (I used my embroidery threads to do so).

All finished. As my 'D' took up the central spot I chose to put two Kam Snaps on instead of one. Opens and closes very easily.
